Dulles Toll Road, Dulles Airport Access Highway to Temporarily Close Four Times Overnight April 21

During the late night hours of Wednesday, April 21, and the early morning hours of Thursday, April 22, all eastbound and westbound lanes of the Dulles Toll Road and the Dulles International Airport Access Highway will be temporarily closed four separate times between midnight and 2:45 a.m. This will take place just east of the Hunter Mill Road interchange, weather permitting (see map).

At 11 p.m. Wednesday, April 21, Metropolitan Washington Airports Authority police will begin setting barriers and tapering off the lanes leading to the full closures. Traffic will be stopped in 15-minute segments between midnight and 2:45 a.m., then all of the lanes will be reopened. The closing of the Airport Access Highway and the Toll Road will affect both the westbound off-ramp and the eastbound on-ramp from Hunter Mill Road.

The closings will allow Dominion Virginia Power to relocate power lines needed for the Dulles Corridor Metrorail Project.

Metropolitan Washington Airports Authority police will be on site to ensure motorists' safety.

In preparation for this installation, a single lane of the eastbound on-ramp from Hunter Mill Road to the toll lanes will be closed Monday and Tuesday, April 19-20 between 10 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. so steel poles can be installed. Traffic delays are not anticipated.

Signs announcing the closings will be placed along the Toll Road and the Airport Access Highway beginning on or about April 14.

In case of rain, the closings will take place late night Thursday, April 23 and the early morning of April 24.

Another late night/early morning closing of the same roads will take place on or about May 4 when Dominion Virginia Power will remove the existing power lines. Details will be announced closer to that event.

If you have any construction-related emergencies, please call the Dulles Corridor Metrorail Project Hotline at 877-585-6789. For additional information about the project, please visit our project website at www.dullesmetro.com or call 703-572-0506.
